PRICE, FIVE CENTS

The Grist Mill

Touching scenes are being enacted daily at Lower Merion's new dog pound in the Mill Creek pumping station, when animals captured by the dog catcher's net are claimed by their owners. One big black German shepherd almost leaped through his cage when he spotted his master. Left alone for a while thereafter, he emitted mournful howls. The cages are full of dogs. Big dogs, little dogs, friendly dogs, dirty dogs, clean dogs, dogs with licenses, dogs without licenses, Pomeranians, poodles, air-dailes, Chesapeake Bays, mongrels, thoroughbreds, dogs, dogs, dogs. . .

There were no arrests for drunken driving in Lower Merion last Saturday night. Perhaps one reason for this condition was the fact that a patrolman was stationed at each tap-room in the township at closing hour to see that no "night owls" operating automobiles were under the influence. This was in accordance with the campaign initiated by John B. Kelly, secretary of revenue, against drunken drivers. In Philadelphia recently when the campaign was started policemen visited the night clubs and quietly suggested to patrons who were partaking too freely of good cheer that they take a taxi home or have a friend drive. The suggestions were well received.

A group of Villanova College students last week-end decided to emulate Washington and soldiers of the Continental Army in hiking from Villanova to Valley Forge. They had heard that Washington and his troops were wont to make that trip often while quartered at Valley Forge. So they set forth in high spirits, with an uncooked lunch in their pockets. Over ice-clogged back roads and snow-covered fields they trudged. After a few miles enthusiasm for the venture began to wane sharply. Some of the boys suggested getting a lift or turning back, but no, the others wouldn't consent. And there were no rides anywhere. So on they tramped, finally reaching Valley Forge, footsore and weary. There they encountered a Boy Scout who told them he had hiked from Sixty-ninth street. "It wasn't that I doubted his veracity exactly," said one of the college boys, "but I intimated that his purveying of the truth wasn't all that it should have been." The uncooked lunch found its way back to the college campus because the boys lost the matches and couldn't find any wood. Besides, eggs are difficult to cook without any utensils. The group arrived home at Villanova with swollen feet and aching bones. It is not reported how the return trip was made.

The resignation of Patrolman Joseph F. V. Kelly from the Lower Merion police force, which was announced last week by the Township Commissioners, was tendered to Superintendent Charles P. Smith in an eight-page letter, it was learned this week. In the letter Kelly spoke of various things, but forgot to mention that he had been married three days before at Elkton to a divorcee who

Victim of Coal Gas Was Buried Yesterday

Mrs. Mary Giuliani, of Brookhurst Avenue, Narberth, Killed by Fumes

2 CHILDREN OVERCOME

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Mrs. Mary Giuliani, of 472 Brookhurst avenue, Narberth, who died of coal gas asphyxiation Monday afternoon.

Her two children, Robert, 7, and Virginia, 4, who were overcome by the gas, were revived in Bryn Mawr Hospital and reported to be out of danger yesterday.

Only the arrival home of the father, Gustino, half an hour earlier than usual is believed to have saved the lives of the children. Mr. Giuliani is employed as a chauffeur by Mrs. Howard Wilson, of Narberth and Chestnut avenues, Narberth.

Mrs. Giuliani was discovered in the basement where she had fallen over a pile of clothes she was preparing to wash. The boy was in the hall near the bathroom, groaning, and the little girl in bed, where she had been sent for a nap after lunch.

Dominic Giuliani, a nephew, took the three victims to the hospital where Mrs. Giuliani was placed in a respirator in a futile attempt to revive her. The girl, whose condition was critical, was placed in an oxygen tent.

A cat and her kitten, household pets, were not affected by the coal gas. It is believed that a desire to conserve the supply of fuel prompted Mrs. Giuliani to close all heater dampers, and unwittingly flood the house with coal gas.

Seeing Eye Program to be Given Monday

Work of Dog Guides for Blind is Subject of Talk and Film

AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

The work being done by 44 dog guides in leading their blind masters in the State of Pennsylvania will be described by Mrs. Harrison Eustis, president of The Seeing Eye, on Monday, March 2, at 8.15 P. M., at St. Mary's Parish House in Ardmore.

Mrs. Eustis, who will also show a sound film of the work of The Seeing Eye, is speaking at the invitation of several organizations on the Main Line. With her on the program will be Morris S. Frank, vice-president of The Seeing Eye. He was trained with "Buddy," his guide, seven years ago at Mrs. Eustis' estate, "Fortunate Fields," in Switzerland. He returned to America, the first blind man in this country to use a dog guide, and traveled thousands of miles, testing the efficiency of the dog guide in American traffic. He cabled to Mrs. Eustis that his experiment was successful and she returned to this country to establish The Seeing Eye, at Morristown, N. J. Since the school was founded in 1929, 200 sightless men and women have been provided with dog guides by the organization.

Invitations to The Seeing Eye program are being issued by the following:

Oliver H. Jackson, of the Wayne Lions Club; Mrs. C. H. Howson and Mrs. C. L. Pierson, Wayne Branch, American Red Cross; William J.

Narberth Said to Have Taken Earlier Name "Elm" From Bowman Family Home

Interesting historical data is included in the following article regarding Narberth written by Norris and published in the column headed "Up and Down Montgomery County" last Friday in the "Norristown Times-Herald."

Narberth celebrates the fortieth anniversary of its incorporation as a borough, in spite of, or perhaps because of, the recent court proceedings to have the borough charter annulled, which proceedings, after having failed at the first attempt, it is announced, are to be renewed.

Among the several communities in Lower Merion Township, Narberth, one of the youngest, is the only one that decided to sever relations with the parent township and became a

Regulations Governing Release of Impounded Dogs Are Announced

Regulations by which owners of dogs impounded under the dog quarantine established last week may secure release of their animals were announced this week by the Narberth Board of Health.

Applications state that owners agree to:

1. To confine the said dog to his property except when on leash, and under direct control of an attendant.
2. To authorize a duly licensed veterinarian, as his agent, to secure the release of said dog in accordance with such regulations as may be prescribed by the Board of Health.
3. To submit the said dog at the owner's expense to a veterinary examination for evidence of rabies 10 days from the date of its recovery and at such other time after that date as any unusual symptoms are observed.

4. To comply with all quarantine regulations of the Board of Health of Narberth.
5. To pay the amount due the borough by reason of the dog being impounded.

When a veterinarian takes over the custody of a licensed dog for an owner he must certify that he has conducted an examination of the dog and has found no clinical evidence of rabies. In the same certification he agrees to place the dog under observation for rabies as required by the Board of Health.

The veterinarian finally agrees to report to the Board of Health of Narberth, forthwith, all cases of rabies coming under his observation where contact with man or animals in Narberth might have been possible.

Gertrude Ely Speaks at Dinner Meeting of Community Health and Civic

SERRILL IS RE-ELECTED

The fiftieth anniversary of the Community Health and Civic Association, Ardmore, was celebrated last night with a dinner meeting at the Merion Cricket Club, Haverford.

The program included an address by Miss Gertrude Ely, of Bryn Mawr, head of the women's activities division of the WPA in Pennsylvania; a memorial resolution for the late Robert W. Lesley, former president of the organization; presentation of reports and election of officers.

Benjamin H. Ludlow, Ardmore attorney, who acted as toastmaster, called attention to the first annual report of the association, which showed expenditures for the year of $3285.83. This contrasted with Treasurer Henry H. Perry's report for 1935, indicating expenditures totaled $36,113.

William J. Serrill, president of the association for many years, was unanimously re-elected. He presided at the meeting and called upon Howard Longstreth, who gave a composite report of the organization's work during 1935.

Mr. Longstreth's report showed that

Forty-Three Dogs Are Impounded in 3 Days

Owners Secure Release of 13 Licensed Animals Seized by S. P. C. A.

RABIES CASE CONFIRMED

The first three days of enforcement of the dog quarantine in Lower Merion and Narberth resulted in the collection of forty-three dogs.

The ambulance and dog catchers of the Women's S. P. C. A. started work Monday and by Wednesday night had carted off forty-three animals to the township's new pound in the Mill Creek pumping station.

Thirteen of the licensed animals were claimed by their owners, who signed release agreements and paid a fixed fee per day for the keep of their dogs.

A report received this week from the State laboratory at Harrisburg confirmed the clinical diagnosis of a rabid dog in Ardmore last Friday, making the third positive case to date on the Main Line.

The animal, the property of Stewart Dolan, of 73 Greenfield avenue, Ardmore, was shot by a Lower Merion policeman after it had bitten a woman and retreated to the owner's cellar, resisting all attempts at capture.

The woman who was bitten, Mrs. Joseph Dolan, a relative of the dog's owner, is receiving the anti-rabies or Pasteur treatment from Dr. Walter J. Stein, of Cricket avenue, Ardmore. The Lower Merion Board of Health has issued a statement that vaccination of dogs against rabies was no guarantee of immunity from the disease.

Police are also notifying owners that muzzles are of scant protection in preventing the spread of rabies since muzzled dogs running at large may be bitten by rabid animals. It was pointed out that dogs developing rabies are apt to tear off muzzles and become a menace to other canines and human beings.

Licensed dogs picked up by the dog catchers are being held for five days, during which period they may be reclaimed by their owners upon signing the release agreement and paying for the animal's keep. Unlicensed dogs will be disposed of after two days in the S. P. C. A.'s lethal chamber near Conshohocken.

The dog catchers began work in West Manayunk, moving from there to Bala-Cynwyd and Ardmore. Other sections of the township, as well as the borough, will be covered during the next few days.

Under provisions of the State dog law, all animals must be restrained in the owner's yard or on a leash and not permitted to run at large.

Editorial Comment

An unusual event on the calendar next week is the Seeing Eye program Monday night at St. Mary's Parish House in Ardmore. Mrs. Harrison Eustis, founder of the organization, whose headquarters are at Morristown, N. J., will speak and show moving pictures of the work of training dogs to act as guides for the blind. Due to her efforts hundreds of dogs have been trained to act as guides for those who are afflicted with blindness, giving them companions more loyal and useful than human beings.

It is reported that the Ardmore Chamber of Commerce will continue its efforts to bring about an assumption of responsibility by either the township or the State in regard to the maintenance of Lancaster avenue. At the present time the Chamber is particularly interested in snow removal and seeks to put a stop to the "buck passing" over responsibility. Township authorities say that since it is a State highway they have no right to clean away snow and ice, while the State, on the other hand, seems only interested in opening up the road for through traffic and evinces no interest in cleaning gutters and making parking space along sides of the street usable by shoppers. If new legislation is needed to clarify the situation, joint efforts of all concerned should be lent to secure it. There is no reason why local business people and their customers should be inconvenienced as they have been this winter.

The Community Health and Civic Association, which celebrated its 50th anniversary last night, has been instrumental in bringing about many improvements in the section during its half century of existence as well as devoting itself, through its nursing service and Child Health Centers, to the physical well being of the people of the Main Line. In booklets distributed at last night's meeting, the history of its half century of service is related, showing just how much in the way of worth while improvements can be accomplished through the active interest of public-spirited men and women.

Although it is hoped that there will be no need to put plans into operation, one is inclined to bestow a figurative pat on the back of the Main Line branch of the American Red Cross for the thorough preparations made to care for residents living along the River road in case of a Schuylkill flood. Surveys have been made and committees are organized and ready to spring into action at a moment's notice. The thickness of the ice on the river and its tributaries caused warnings to be issued to prepare for possible emergencies. Being flooded out is no new experience for many families living along the river in Lower Merion Township, but it will be somewhat novel for them to have the assistance available which has been mobilized.

This paper welcomes communications on timely subjects.

The Political Pot

Behind the scenes maneuvering is still going on between the reputed chief candidates for the Legislature at Harrisburg from the First District of Montgomery County. Samuel K. McConnell, Jr., of Penn Wynne, and Lambert Cadwalader, of Villanova, who are the strongest candidates for the post, according to political observers, are playing a waiting game. Neither has started circulation, as yet, of his petitions, each apparently waiting for the organization endorsement before proceeding. Monday, March 9, is the last day for filing petitions.

Charles E. Claghorn, of Narberth, 24-year-old auditor who ran against Fred Peters in 1934, is in hopes that a McConnell-Cadwalader deadlock will make him the favored dark horse, and that the Organization's tap will then fall on his shoulders. Claghorn's platform is "For economical but efficient government." He is a graduate of Lower Merion High School and has spent the past four years in accounting and auditing work.

A new committeeman and committeewoman have been selected in the General Wayne district of Lower Merion. John H. Link, of 532 Putnam road, Merion Park, has been chosen committeeman, while Mrs. W. Russell Green, of 440 Woodbine avenue, Penn Valley, is the new committeewoman. Mr. Link is a sales engineer for W. H. Miner, Inc., of Chicago, and has lived in the district for ten years. Mrs. Green, wife of the Montgomery County solicitor, is a vice-president of the Lower Merion-Narberth Council of Republican Women and has been active in civic and political affairs.

It may be necessary to select a new committeewoman in the Cynwyd district of the township. Miss Margaret O. Benade, who succeeded her mother, the late Mrs. Theodore Benade, as committeewoman there, has sold her home on State road and may be unable to locate in Cynwyd. Although she supported her boss, Frank Shallop, unsuccessful candidate in last fall's primary for Register of Wills, Miss Benade still retains her post in that office under Haseltine S. Lever.

A new congressional candidate from up in the county blossomed out this week against Messrs. Ditter and Ederer. The new aspirant is H. Eugene Gardner, a Glenside attorney. He is said to be sponsoring a unique scheme to boycott all county newspapers which display a disinclination to give him a fair amount of favorable publicity.

Samuel K. White, Merion attorney, is reported to be circulating petitions for the Democratic nomination for Assemblyman from the First Legislative District of Montgomery. Mr. White, who is 43, lives at 637 Bowman avenue and has offices in the Liberty Trust Building, Philadelphia. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Law School and was admitted to the bar in 1916. He is a lifelong Democrat and has taken an active part in political work in the section since moving to the Main Line in 1918. He has a son, Samuel K. White, Jr., who is a student at Lower Merion.

Several Main Line women were among the 700 attending the meeting of the Republican Women's Luncheon Club of Philadelphia and suburbs held Monday at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. Mrs. John Y. Huber, Jr., of Haverford, is a member of the club's Board of Directors. Mrs. J. William Ditter, wife of Montgomery County's Congressman, was a guest at the luncheon.

Buy Tract, Sells Home

J. Howard Mecke, Jr., has purchased and settled for one-half acre of ground on Clarendon road just west of Broad Acres road in Penn Valley, from trustees of the estate of Michael and James Magee. On this plot will be constructed immediately a Colonial residence which has been sold for the sum of $15,250.

Smith to Help

Charles P. Smith, superintendent of Lower Merion police, has been named a member of a committee from the Montgomery County Police Chiefs' Association to co-operate with the District Attorney's office in planning a police radio system for Montgomery County.

Letters Granted

Letters of administration in the estate of James Short, Lower Merion, who died January 27, have been granted to Dorothy Lynch, of Bala, a daughter. The value of the estate is $2,000.

Girl Scout News

Troop 125

"The Philadelphia Girl Scouts are on the air!" Six Girl Scouts from Narberth Troop 125 settled back in their chairs to watch one of the weekly broadcasts of the Girl Scouts from Station W H A T. The broadcast consisted of a thrilling real happening in the lives of Girl Scouts all over the United States. The parts were taken by Girl Scouts from eleven and twelve years of age. The Narberth scouts saw how the sound effects were produced. After this fascinating experience, the girls went through the Ledger Building. They followed one page, the second, through all its many processes. Each girl received one of the first papers to come off the press that afternoon.

In keeping with Washington's birthday, the scouts made a tour of Independence Hall. The relic that proved of most interest to them was a finger ring which contained two of Washington's hairs. It was difficult to get the girls away from these treasures.

Troop 8

Troop 8 is proud to announce that two of its members, Lucy Baker and Betty Seasholtz, have received their commissions as lieutenants. Lucy has been an active member of the troop for almost five years and it will not be long until she attains the first-class rank. For the past three years she has attended Girl Scout camps both here and in New York. Now she is acting as lieutenant in Troops 8 and 47. Although Betty did not join our troop until 1932, she has been a scout for eight years. About three and one-half years ago she transferred to Narberth Troop 8 from Ardmore. She, too, has gone to scout camps and is almost a first-class scout. She has assisted with the Brownie Pack in Narberth and is now lieutenant for Troops 8 and 125. We expect to hear great things of them as they are both first-class material for first-class leaders.

Troop 8 will participate in the song contest held at the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church this coming Saturday at 2 P. M. The scouts will meet at the Scout House promptly at one-thirty.

Next week there will be a supper meeting at six o'clock. Each girl will bring a guest who is not a scout.

was not adopted until 1892. It is said to be the name of a parish in Wales, a Welsh designation being preferred in recognition of the early Welsh influence in the settlement of Lower Merion. One authority on such things says the name comes from the Welsh terms, "Na," meaning not, and "berth," beautiful.

Indicative of the rapid growth of the new community in its early days, the Baptist Church was established in 1890, the Presbyterian in 1891 and the Methodist in 1892. The first buildings of both the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches were destroyed by fire in the 1890's.

However, there was a station here on the Pennsylvania's Main Line before the place was called Narberth. It was Elm Station. In his delightful Main Line reminiscences, J. W. Townsend says the brakemen on the trains always pronounced it "El-lm." Because of the numerous mud puddles sarcastic citizens called the region "Slippery Elm."

Certain local historians say the old name of Elm also was of Welsh origin. The orthography seems too uncomplicated to be Welsh. However, the story is that William Thomas, a native of Wales, owned a large tract of land here and he gave the railroad a site for a station provided the place should be named Elm, in honor of his old home in Wales.

While known as Elm Station the place had few inhabitants, but the name of the community became widely known through the Elm Station murder, as it was termed. In 1876 a German named Max Hugo Hoehne, recently arrived in this country, was killed along the railroad near Elm Station and his body buried in the railroad embankment, being discovered some weeks later. For a long time the crime seemed an unfathomable mystery, but finally the man's companion, Henri Whalen, was arrested and convicted. He committed suicide in the county prison.

The theory that Elm Station was named for a place in Wales may be questioned on other ground than the fact that the name does not look Welsh. On the Old Lancaster road, now Montgomery avenue, which skirts Narberth, was a famous estate known as Elm Hall. It was the home of successive generations of the Bowman family since 1769.

A writer in the 1890's described the Elm Hall property as being "like Mount Vernon." Numerous fine old elm trees made the place notable, as elm trees are not numerous in South-eastern Pennsylvania.

The best known of the Bowman family who lived at Elm Hall was General Wendell P. Bowman, prominent because of his long service in the National Guard of Pennsylvania. He served in the Civil War and Spanish War, became colonel of the First Regiment, of Philadelphia, in 1887, brigadier general of the First Brigade in 1907 and major general of the division three years later.

Bowman's Bridge was a landmark a century ago in the days when the Columbia Railroad, following the course of the present Pennsylvania Main Line from the Susquehanna River to Ardmore, turned east at the latter place, along the course of the present Montgomery avenue to the neighborhood of Narberth and then continued through Bala to the Schuylkill at Belmont, where it crossed the river and entered Philadelphia. All this part of the railroad, from Ardmore to the river, was abandoned in 1850.

Ever since then traces of the railroad tracks of long ago come to light when excavations are made in this region. Retaining walls along Montgomery avenue were built of stone blocks, used instead of wooden ties, on this railroad.

In 1922, in building a gas station on Montgomery avenue, near Elm Hall, walls of stone block construction were unearthed ten feet below the surface. Investigation proved the walls were the remains of what used to be known as Bowman's Bridge. On this bridge the old Columbia Railroad crossed what is now Montgomery avenue.

New Books Are Listed in International Mind Alcove

Five books just received in the International Mind Alcove of the Narberth Community Library are listed below. The notes are quoted from a letter accompanying the gift and were written by Miss Amy Hemingway Jones.

There are now forty titles in the alcove. They include books of travel, social life and customs, economic conditions, politics and government of countries, biographies and general books on peace.

The new list follows:

"The Real Abyssinia," by C. F. Rey. A book on Abyssinia (Ethiopia) was included in the previous alcove installment. Those who have read it may remember frequent references to statements by Colonel C. F. Rey and to his book, "The Real Abyssinia." The author has spent ten years in Ethiopia—"rubbed shoulders with its governors and people, studied its customs and conditions" (p. 11). This means a wide experience with the country and its people long before Ethiopia was pushed forward into the limelight by the Italian invasion. In these days of hectic sensational news it is well worth while to read a leisurely account such as this of the real Abyssinia.

"My Country and My People," by Lin Yutang. This is a book about China written by a Chinese, but it is not a translation. The author, who is a distinguished member of the Chinese literary world of today, has written his book in English, with which he is thoroughly conversant. "It is, I think," writes Pearl S. Buck, "the truest, the most profound, the most complete, the most important book yet written about China."

"Facing Two Ways," by S. Ishimoto. Unlike the book on China, this one on Japan is written by a mature woman who looks back as well as forward. The pages are full of intimate personal references and portray the life of the author from childhood through the anxious years of struggle and protest to the new start described in the closing chapter. While this book deals especially with the woman problem, it will appeal to all readers.

"Portuguese Somersault," by Jan and Cora Gordon. To those who want to get away for a little while from the routine of daily life and interests I heartily recommend this book, which will carry the reader quickly into a strange new atmosphere full of the color and idle haphazard living of the peasants of Portugal, of which we here in America know so little.

"A Tender of Peace," by John B. Clark. We have added this small book to the regular installment since it seems so admirably adapted to the purpose of the alcove. It presents in its brief pages and in clear-cut paragraphs the views of a man who has spent his long life in the study of the subject he discusses. He is internationally known as an authority on political economy, which he was teaching at Columbia University when he retired in 1929.

Plan Lenten Meeting

A Lenten meeting of the Modern Club of Philadelphia will be held March 13 at 10.45 A. M. It will be conducted by Canon Ernest C. Earp, of the Church of the Redeemer, Bryn Mawr, and the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Schreiner, of the Episcopal Farm School. Luncheon will follow at 12.30.

The Drama Committee of the allied arts department will have charge of the meeting on Wednesday, March 18, to be held at the home of Mrs. James A. Babbitt in Haverford. The time is 2.30. Mrs. J. E. B. Cunningham will give readings, "Victoria Regina" and "Dead End."

"THE SHELF BEHIND THE DOOR"

You may want additional shelves for Hats and Shoes to make them easily accessible.

The back of your laundry door is an ideal place to put a rack of shelves for the storage of soaps, powders, brushes and other incidentals.

Probably you could use another Wall Cabinet for storage. They're very convenient.

Water . . . the Sculptor of the Earth

Just as the sculptor cuts away his material to shape a design, so water is continually moulding the hills and etching out the valleys of our countryside.

Water can, in time, level a mountain. Falling in rain, it washes loose soil from the rock slopes. Seeping into crevices of the rock, it freezes, crumbling and breaking up the exposed stone. Little by little, jutting peaks and heavy shoulders disappear. After millions of years a grassy hill takes the place of a precipitous mountain.

Over a long period of years, a river can hollow out a valley and use the material it washes away from one place to fill up the low regions in its course.

The continuous action of water has sculptured the Philadelphia area into the rolling contours familiar to us today.

At times the characteristics of the land are a help to man—at times, a hindrance. They affect him in his search for minerals and in his transportation problems. The contours of this territory make the laying-out of a public water supply a great deal more difficult than it would be in a comparatively level area.

Complete preparations have been made to care for people living along River road in Lower Merion Township if their homes should be flooded by rising waters of the Schuylkill.

Warnings issued by county authorities caused the Main Line branch of the American Red Cross to act swiftly in preparing for the possible emergency. It was announced that the ice-choked condition of the Schuylkill's tributaries might cause the river to overflow its banks in case of a sudden thaw coupled with rain.

Edwin W. Ehmman, disaster relief chairman of the local branch, made a survey of the riverfront from Mary Waters Ford road to West Conshohocken. This revealed a total of sixty-eight families with more than 100 individuals.

Care of families along the lower portion of the river bordered by West Manayunk will be provided in case of emergency by the Bala-Cynwyd branch of the Red Cross under the leadership of its chairman, Mrs. J. E. Hammer.

Committees have been appointed by Mr. Ehmman to arrange for shelter, food, clothing, medical aid, transportation, etc., in case of need.

Chairmen of the various committees are as follows:

Clothing—Mrs. Edward F. Hoffman, Jr., Villanova.

Finance—Mrs. Henry C. Earnshaw, Bryn Mawr.

Food—Miss Vera Grannis, Bryn Mawr.

Medical aid—Dr. Herbert W. Taylor, Haverford.

Rescue—George B. Matthews, Ardmore.

Shelter—Miss Joan Wollaston, Ardmore.

Survey and Intelligence—Joseph Cairns, Jr., Ardmore.

Transportation and Communication—Robert Beal, Ardmore.

Voluntary Restrictions Provide Basis For Preservation of Mill Creek Valley

Preservation of the natural beauty of the Mill Creek Valley through voluntary restrictions moved another step toward accomplishment this week.

After more than a year of negotiations carried on by the Lower Merion Planning Commission, general agreement has been reached on methods of securing the desired ends.

The form of agreement to be entered into jointly by property owners and the township regarding restrictions for the Creek Valley has been approved by the Lower Merion Board of Commissioners.

These restrictions provide that no shade trees or comparable woody plants shall be cut down; that no new building shall be erected; that no part of the restricted area shall be used for a public swimming pool, picnic ground or gathering place, and that walls, fences or hedges shall not obstruct views of natural beauty.

They also provide for adequate police supervision and protection for the area and agreement by the township to prevent insofar as is possible the widening of Mill Creek road.

The proposed restricted area lies between Mill Creek and Mill Creek road, extending one hundred feet beyond both middle lines, from the Schuylkill River to Black Rock road, a distance of three and one-half miles.

In order to make the restrictions agreement effective the signatures must be obtained of owners of two-thirds to three-quarters of the land area involved.

The movement to preserve the Mill Creek Valley extends over a period of over twenty years. Back in 1917 the City Parks Association of Philadelphia referred to the negligence of Lower Merion Commissioners to preserve "beautiful Mill Creek for posterity." They recommended that the Fairmount Park Association go outside the city limits and acquire the valley.

More recently local organizations, particularly the Community Health and Civic Association of Ardmore, through its president, William J. Scerrill, have become aroused over the possibility of destruction of the natural beauty of the Mill Creek area.

Complex problems of property rights of owners in the area have proved a stumbling block to adoption of any plan looking toward the preservation of the Creek Valley. Acquisition of the area by purchase has been eliminated from consideration due to the almost prohibitive cost per acre.

Formation of the Mill Creek Valley Association, composed of many of the large property owners in the district, under the leadership of C. T. Ludington, paved the way for negotiations with the Township Planning Commission for voluntary restrictions.

Through the agreements now ready for signatures practically the same results for preservation of the scenic values of the area will be achieved as though the land had been acquired by the township. Residents, on the other hand, will maintain ownership and protect themselves against intrusion.

Harold Kline, coach of the Lower Merion Reserve basketball team, has been doing yeoman service again this year with his curtain raisers. Only one loss mars the record of the second-team boys, a close decision to Upper Darby, and they go into the final contest of the season tonight safely ensconced in first place.

The second-team game with Norristown at Villanova tonight will eclipse the first-team struggle in interest, I believe, for various reasons. Most important is the fact that Lower Merion's championship array will not be pressing to win and will likely run up an easy victory over the boys from above the Schuylkill.

Jeff Smith, Bill Humes and very likely Bill Watson will be missing from the Lower Merion line-up. Smith's ankle will take time to heal, while Watson and Humes are both under the weather with a touch of gripe. While the team will be weakened by the absence of this trio, the reserve players will do just about as well. I look for an easy Lower Merion victory this time.

At 7:45 tonight the Lower Merion Junior High five will entertain the Upper Darby Junior High in the first night game between the two schools in history. An effort was made to change the time of meeting due to the moving of the Norristown-Lower Merion game to the Main Line, but it was impossible to arrange another date. The game will be started early enough for the followers of both teams to see both games.

The Leopards stopped the winning streak of the Haverford Junior High five on Tuesday at South Ardmore by trouncing Mark Rice's team, 33 to 11. The entire team played well in this return encounter and earned the easy victory. If Upper Darby is able to defeat the boys from Haverford next Monday afternoon, and the Lower Merion concludes the season undefeated in the final three games, the local school will have a league record of thirteen victories and one defeat to top Haverford's of twelve wins and two losses.

Joe Clausen, reserve player for the Lower Merion Juniors, claims the honor of being high scorer for Haverford last Tuesday in the game with Lower Merion. Joe, during the final moment of the game, got mixed up in his directions and looped in a beautiful shot for the opponents. He claims that if he had shot for his own basket he would have missed, so it's just as well.

When one of the Haverford High boys dribbled down the floor a couple of weeks ago in an effort to score a basket for Lower Merion, he was stopped just in time by one of his teammates. A rooster for the Maroon yelled to Coach Mentzer, "Better save those points for the home club, Bill Anderson's got plenty."

Dennis O'Neill Speaker at Democratic Luncheon Club

Dennis A. O'Neill, of Norristown, Democratic candidate for district attorney at the last election, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Democratic Women's Luncheon Club of Lower Merion and Narberth, held at the Brass Platter Inn, Montgomery avenue, Ardmore, Wednesday.

Mr. O'Neill stressed the importance of keeping the party together and of choosing and supporting able committeemen and women to represent the party at the primary election.

Miss Frances Dougherty, of Haverford, gave a summary of the various steps in the process of electing a president.

Mrs. Joseph Kelley, of Narberth, presided at the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Vincent Russell.

Hearing Date Set by Court on Exceptions to Merger Costs

The March session of Argument Court, to be held the week of March 30, has been fixed by Judge Dannehower as the time for a hearing on the exceptions filed by the petitioners for the annulment of the Narberth Borough Charter.

In the exceptions, filed by Franklin L. Wright, attorney for the merger group, protests were made against the statement of costs and expenses incurred by the Narberth Home Rule Committee in connection with the court hearing January 24. The total bill filed by Attorney Roland Flier amounted to $1,076.96.

-SPORTLETS-

An overtime period failed to break a 1-1 tie between the Lower Merion Maroons and Malvern Prep in an ice hockey match at the Arena Tuesday, punctuated by freely flying fists.

Bucknell Bisons tamed Villanova's Wildcats again Tuesday night at Villanova in a basketball game, 43-36. Villanova also lost to C. C. N. Y., 36-18. At their Main Line pool Villanova's natators saw the College of Osteopathy win the 200-yard relay and fancy-diving events, then grabbed off the next five events and the match, 38-28. Bill Leahy took both the 50- and 100-yard freestyle events.

Radnor High girls defeated Taylor School's basketball team, 25-17, at Wayne Tuesday, overcoming a 10-9 first-half disadvantage. Radnor's varsity, which easily won from Eddystone last Friday, 23-9, will face a much tougher opponent away at Swarthmore today. In a non-league game Tuesday, Upper Darby won from Radnor, 16-10.

Lower Merion has a jinx on Norristown this year. Tuesday, for the first time in nine games, Norristown girls lost to the Maroon at Ardmore, 21-18.

Lansdowne scored an upset in Suburban Section One circles last Friday by trouncing Haverford Township High 28-22, dropping the latter to fourth place. Haverford plays at Chester today and will have to stiffen its attack to avoid another loss.

Haverford College hopes to atone for its long string of defeats when it meets Swarthmore's five tonight at Haverford. Recently the Main Line team suffered reverses at the hands of Hamilton, 45-27; Union College, 48-32.

Roger Hanger, Cynwyd, former Lower Merion basketball captain, has been leading the scoring against Penn's opponents.

Dave Aiken, with 17 points, and Fred Gane with 14 tallies, led their Bryn Mawr Presbyterian mates in a 43-30 victory over Trinity Presbyterian to hold a comfortable second place in the Church League. Sellers Memorial is still the undefeated top-notch of the circuit, however, with a recent victory over Wayne Baptist, 47-17. Narberth M. E. won from St. Luke's, 40-31, but bowed to Sellers, 28-24.

Haverford School swimmers made it seventeen straight this week, outclassing Germantown Academy, 47-18.

In the Main Line League, Penn Wynne and Bryn Mawr won as usual, the former from the Haverford Aces, 39-23, the latter from Narberth, 39-21.

Haverford School Alumni, undefeated in eleven starts, cinched the Interac Alumni flag with a victory over Episcopal Academy grads, 30-23.

National Chairman to Speak at D. A. R. Meeting Monday

Mrs. Horace M. Jones, national chairman of Americanism of the D. A. R., will speak at the meeting of the Jephtha Abbott Chapter, Monday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. James R. Cameron, Derwen road, Merion. The co-hostess will be Mrs. Harry H. Hellerman.

Announcement will be made at the meeting of the pupil in the seventh grade of the Ardmore Public School to receive the Chapter's essay award. Annual reports of officers and committee chairmen will be given at this meeting.

County Rate 3 Mills

The Montgomery County tax rate has been set at 3 mills, it was announced this week by William D. Ridgway, president of the Board of Commissioners. The 3-mill rate has been in effect since 1931. Prior to that it was 4 mills for three years, during construction of the million-dollar courthouse annex at Norristown. The county's "pay-as-you-go" policy prevented borrowing to finance this project, which was paid for out of current income.

formerly lived in Pittsburgh and is reputed to have both social position and wealth. Prior to her marriage she is understood to have lived in Bryn Mawr.

Hundreds of Main Line dogs had narrow escapes from the dog catcher this week and some were not so lucky, as many owners and the custodians of the pound know only too well. Paul Klimes' dog, Rex, missed the pound by a scream early Monday afternoon. He followed a customer out of his owner's Cynwyd Electric Shop, opposite the Egyptian Theatre in Cynwyd, just as the dog catcher started his rounds there. Klimes—and perhaps the dog—first knew of the danger when the net descended on Rex, and simultaneously a scream rent the air. It came as a friendly warning from Mrs. Ernest Henry, proprietress of a beauty shop nearby and a great lover of dogs. The dog catcher was startled by the scream and looked up, lifting his net a bit. Rex scampered through the electric shop's door. The catcher followed. Klimes, a husky former Atlantic City lifeguard, stood guard. The officer detailed to help the catcher stood laughing. And that was that.

Edward Kirsch, Rosemont, was appointed to the newly created office of assistant township engineer this week by the Radnor Commissioners at a salary of $2400. At the same time they abolished the office of road supervisor, throwing Thomas A. Hobson, Radnor, out of a job. Hobson will be given another job if one "could be found." Although five persons have been bitten in the township, Radnor will not follow the examples of Lower Merion and Haverford Townships and the Borough of Narberth in imposing a dog quarantine, the Commissioners decided.

Death came February 24 to Dr. George David Rosengarten, 67, former president of the American Chemical Society, noted scientist, industrialist and clubman, whose home was in Malvern. He is survived by three brothers, Adolph G. Rosengarten, Wayne, and Frederick and Joseph G. Rosengarten, and two sisters, Mrs. W. W. Atterbury, Radnor, and Mrs. Lewis Neilson, St. Davids.

Montgomery County's tax rate will be 3 mills, the same as in effect each year since 1931, it was announced by William D. Ridgway, president of the Board of Commissioners.

Permission to operate a bus loop from the P. and W. station to the Bryn Mawr business section and return has been granted by the Public Service Commission. A similar ruling is expected soon on the proposed loop in Wayne.

Blood Donors Wanted

The Bryn Mawr Hospital would like to add a certain number of professional blood donors to its list. Robust adults who desire to become permanent blood donors may present themselves for examination at the Bryn Mawr Hospital laboratory any day by appointment. Preference will be given to permanent residents of the community and the immediate vicinity of the hospital.
